Congratulations! You now own the most luxurious personal Hammock Tent on the market. Please check all components of your Haven when received, before using. Best to first set-up at home, to become familiar with the procedures for different circumstances, before heading out on the trail.

When you arrive at your camp site, if you intend to light a fire, set your Haven Tent up-wind from the fire, and keep a look out for sparks that can be carried by circulating wind currents.

Begin by finding two suitable hanging points - make sure you hang from healthy trees, and check the tree canopy overhead for dead branches that could fall, then use the tree straps to set up. A hang height of 60cm, approx knee-height above the ground is a good guide. (see video "Haven Rainfly Setup Guide")

Setting up your Haven Tent:

Thread the carabiner up through the rainfly slot from the underside, then back down through the other slot from the topside and close the gate.

Pull carabiner tight and attach to the tree strap, then repeat at the other end. Now adjust tension to keep the ridgeline taught and level, or you may adjust for your head to be slightly higher or lower than your feet.

Attaching the Rainfly later - release the tension from the Haven ridge-line, and disconnect the carabiner from the tree-strap. Attach the carabiners to the Rainfly following the instructions above, then pull tight and reconnect to the tree-straps and tension-up. Alternatively, the Rainfly can be set up independently - attach cords to the loops at both ends of the Rainfly, then attach these cords to the tree-strap loops, and tension-up the Rainfly.

Now you're ready to insert the two spreader-bars into the little pockets, and place the inflatable mattress on the hammock floor. Inflate with the bag-pump, and tuck the mattress into the corner pockets to keep in place.

Stake out or roll up the Rainfly, with or without the bug-net and you're done! Voila, a Lay-flat Hammock setup ready to offer a comfy night's sleep.

Never leave children unsupervised inside your Haven Tent, or any hammock - play it safe!
